

Jan Huisken is the director of Medical Engineering at the Morgridge Institute for Research. Jan has a background in three-dimensional fluorescence microscopy, optical manipulation, and developmental biology. He is best known for his interdisciplinary work at the interface of gentle high-resolution microscopy and quantitative developmental biology.